Wool Growers in Spotlight; Montezuma Ball Tonight

BRIGHT WEATHER SMILES FOR LAST TWO DAYS OF CARNIVAL

Cold Wind Braved by Record Breaking Throng at Trac-tion Park Yesterday Changes to Warm Sunshine.

GRAND JOLLIFICATION FINALE SATURDAY NIGHT

The fair management announces that owing to the inclement weather yesterday and the extra expense entailed in bringing a new aviator, the tree-lit will be suspended tomorrow.

That the New Mexico State Fair, with the largest crowd ever known, is going to wind up in a blaze of glory is evident, now that the fifth day of the program has gone through with a whoop and throning remaining the last and culminating day with the grand carnival jollification and confetti celebration Saturday night down town.

The cold wind which made it uncomfortable for the big crowd yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds today gave place to sparkling sunshine and sunny air, an ideal October day in New Mexico with a solemn promise by the weather man that it will remain clear tomorrow with gradually rising temperature.

The fair this year has been remarkable for the fact that the visitors have not, as usual, ceased to arrive by the middle of the week, but have kept right on coming up to the next to the last day. More are actually expected tonight to make in the final day of the week. Ordinarily this banner crowd has been in evidence on Thursday; but it reached its highest mark today and prospects are that it will be substantially larger tomorrow.

It is a pretty well satisfied crowd, take it all around. The daily program of amusement at the fair grounds has been full of glee and thrills all the way, the motorcycle races being about the fastest thing in the way of speed contests ever held in Albuquerque. The local motorcyclists have taken to the racing business like veterans and the element of danger in the terrific speed necessary is plenty enough to keep an audience on the qui vive. The western sports are highly popular, the horse racing and baseball have kept interest very much alive and the exhibits alone are enough to give the New Mexico booster all he wants to see at the grounds.

WOOL GROWERS TAKE POSSESSION OF CITY

Today was Wool Growers' day and the sessions of the New Mexico Wool Growers' association have been the principal feature, the meeting being attended by a large number of representative wool growers from all parts of the state, gathered together to discuss the problems now before that industry. The dog show on Central avenue has attracted large crowds since its opening, both of dog fanciers and the public at large and has proved a most successful adjunct to the fair.

GAY MONTEZUMA BALL ON THIS EVENING

The Montezuma ball, society event par excellence of the year in New Mexico, happens tonight at the Alvarado and will be a scene of brilliance and gayety, the spacious hotel having been magnificently decorated for the occasion. The arrangements committee headed by B. O. Jaffa as general chairman has been extremely busy and busy to good effect. Men and women of prominence from all over the state will attend the big function, the grand march to be led by Governor W. C. McDonald and Mrs. McDonald and Mayor D. K. B. Sellers and Mrs. Sellers. Excellent music has been provided, and all the appointments will be fully up to and ahead of the high standard already set.

The carnival attractions continue to do a good business and the mighty crowds in the down town section are immense.

DANCE ON CENTRAL AVENUE HELD TOMORROW NIGHT

A distinctly novel feature of the confetti night celebration tomorrow night will be the big dance, to be held on Central avenue for four blocks in the business section in which everybody is expected to participate. Music will be furnished by the band and the street pavement will be cleaned especially for the occasion. Masks go all the way down the line and many motley costumes are expected to make their appearance.

Aviator Francis Makes Good at Fair This Afternoon

FRANCIS FEARLESS AND ENTHUSIASTIC AVIATOR

Aviator Francis arrived in Albuquerque last night, accompanied by his mechanics, J. F. Mason and Al Barrows. His big sixty-horse-power biplane was in the express car on the same train and was unloaded here last night. Francis was up at daylight this morning and by 12 o'clock he and his mechanics had assembled the craft on the Traction Park diamond, starting point for the flights. Francis bossed the job in a manner that indicated he knew his business. In striking contrast Lincoln Beachey, Francis is full of pep and ginger, and today kept up a rapid fire conversation with mechanics, suggesting from time to time.

Mr. McClure spoke in part as follows:

"As I came through New Mexico yesterday I saw from the train many ranges that are destined to make New Mexico the greatest wool

Sheep Men from Many Sections of State Here to Discuss Means of Protecting New Mexico's Greatest Industry.

"Wool growing is one of the great industries of the state and in the present campaign the vital issue to be determined is 'shall we protect and maintain this industry or shall we destroy it by tariff reduction.' This is the issue our people must determine on November 4. And the wisdom with which they make this determination will decide whether or not your state is to continue as a prosperous and happy commonwealth." From speech here today by S. W. McClure, secretary National Wool Growers' association.

The New Mexico Wool Growers' association convened its annual meeting in the Elks' theater in Albuquerque at 7:30 this evening and after a two hour session adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The meeting of the wool growers today was an enthusiastic one, and while not so well attended from the far countries of the state as anticipated, the attendance was nevertheless gratifying.

"Whom did you refer to of these four men?" asked Assistant District Attorney Moore. Ryan appeared frightened.

"I didn't refer to anybody," he declared, shifting his eyes quickly over the four men.

" Didn't you tell the assistant district attorney, in the prison yesterday, that you were afraid to put your hand on him?" pursued Mr. Moore.

"I was afraid to because I might put my hand on the wrong man," replied Ryan in a low voice.

"Can you swear?" interrupted Justice Goff, "that one of these four men fired the shot? Look at the prisoners."

Ryan gave a fleeting look at the four. Every one of the gunmen was eyeing him.

"I cannot," he replied in a trembling voice. Ryan was then allowed to leave.

He was followed on the stand by Giovanni Stanish, an eye witness who saw three men with revolvers but was not sure whether more than one fired at Rosenthal. Again the four men were brought into court.

Stanish left the witness stand with hesitation, picked up "Whitey" Lewis as one of the men he had seen. He was unable to identify the others, but swore that "Whitey" fired one of the shots.

Smooth Mexican Craft Exposed.

Juarez, Mex., Oct. 11.—A system of procuring money to the surrenders of rebel soldiers is exposed by allegations made by federal officials here. Colonel Lazaro Alvarado, in jail in El Paso, had offered to cause the surrender of his forces which he said numbered 400 men. He wanted 25,000 pesos for the order for his men to surrender and accept the amnesty offered by the federal government. It is learned, however, that the Mexican force never numbered 400, and that all have been dispersed.

LIEUTENANT BECKER ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Widow of Dead Gambler Among Those Expected to Testify Against New York Police Officer.

By Leased Wire to Evening Herald

New York, Oct. 11.—Jacob and Morris Luban, the "mysterious witnesses" found by District Attorney Whitman in jail at Newark, were at the criminal courts building today, waiting to be called to the stand at the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal. They were held in Newark on charges of forgery, but on their statement that their arrest was a "frame up" and that one of them was an eye witness to the murder, they were paroled and brought to New York.

Giovanni Stanish, another witness to the tragedy, and Mrs. Lillian Rosenthal, widow of the murdered gambler, were other witnesses whom it was expected the state would call early. The informants, Rose, Vallon, Weber and Schepp, were held in readiness as usual, and it was thought possible that enough progress might be made to reach Rose's testimony.

Thomas Ryan, a chauffeur and an eye witness of the murder, was the first witness called today. His appearance was a surprise to the defense, for his name had not previously figured in the case.

The four gunmen were brought into court and Ryan was asked to pick out the man who fired the shot that killed Rosenthal.

"Whom did you refer to of these four men?" asked Assistant District Attorney Moore. Ryan appeared frightened.

"I didn't refer to anybody," he declared, shifting his eyes quickly over the four men.

" Didn't you tell the assistant district attorney, in the prison yesterday, that you were afraid to put your hand on him?" pursued Mr. Moore.

London, Oct. 11.—Four bandits bungled the hold-up of a northbound Kansas City Southern passenger train between Hatfield and Mena, Ark., early today. One was wounded and captured and the other fled.

The advancing Montenegrins army took lightly Montenegrin threats, and the Turkish military authorities were not prepared on that frontier as on the Serbian and Bulgarian borders. Hence the reported continued success of the King Nicholas forces.

The Montenegrins followed up their success by capturing yesterday the fort guard in Tushi, thus improving the road for an advance on Scutari and an official telegram received by the consul general of Montenegro in London says the advance to date has been about 40,000 persons. Joe Wood, Boston's pitching star, was invincible when he meant runs and the New York batters could do nothing with him. Wood did not give a base on balls. Wagner played a strong game at short for Boston, taking several hard hit balls that were heading for center field, while on the dead run and pinching the batters at first by fast throws.
